“At my previous job, which I was at for nearly ten years, I never once felt supported or valued. I did not know you could have a job to go to where you did not dread going in or were not stressed about. Yes, there are frustrating situations or moments here, but that is a part of any job.”

“Capabilities is a pioneer in providing services for adults with barriers and I am so proud to be part of that team. I look forward to making a difference in the lives of the persons we work with as well as the staff that I work with.
